TAKE CONTROL OF YOUR SUPER

For an ever-increasing number of Australian's looking for greater control and value from their superannuation, a Self-Managed Super Fund (SMSF) appears to be the retirement vehicle of choice. There are in excess of 599,678 SMSFs in existence, with more than $747.6 Billion under management. More and more people are discovering the benefits of a SMSF with approximately 1400 new SMSFs established each month.*

A self-managed superannuation fund (SMSF) is simply a small family superannuation Trust that has four or less members. Like a family Trust, the central control over the investment decisions of an SMSF lie with the individual Trustees or Directors of the Trustee Company. The SMSF is formed with a Trust deed which includes the governing rules by which the Trust must operate. In contrast to a typical Family Trust, an SMSF Trust must also abide by a set of specific government regulations, namely the SIS legislation.

SMSFs have existed for decades, in their early days they were a structure typically used by accountants for wealthier and more complex clients. As knowledge of SMSFs grew, accountants began utilising the structure for self-employed clients. SMSFs were relatively expensive to set up and run.

During the past two decades the SMSF sector has been the fastest growing component of the superannuation sector. With such a large number of people establishing a SMSF, significant effort has been made to deliver the services and meet the expectations of the modern SMSF investor. During the past 10 years, investment has been made into software and technology. The results of this investment have been greater efficiency and lower cost to establish, administer and manage an SMSF.

What is an SMSF?

Investment Choice

SMSFs allow Trustees investment choice into all legal investments. For instance, access to direct shares, direct property, term deposits, hedge funds, ETFs, managed funds, collectables, currency trading, precious metals and other investment types that typically cannot be accessed by a member of a large industry or retail super fund. The benefits of SMSF's can be seen in both "choice", and in the ability to implement sophisticated investment strategies.

Tax Strategies

Superannuation enjoys a 15% tax rate and lower in some circumstances. This concessional tax treatment makes it an attractive environment to accumulate wealth for retirement. SMSF's provide the ability to implement your own tailored tax saving strategies which can increase the rate of return. This can be done as an ongoing plan each year and can be as simple or as complex as you want to make it.

Direct access to Franking credits through investments in companies can reduce or remove contribution tax which positively impacts the SMSF's bottom line. With total control over the investment strategy of the SMSF, investment portfolio adjustments can be made to save capital gains tax and clear out unproductive assets.

Property investors can also use the benefits of depreciation to increase the total return of that investment.

Why are SMSF's so POPULAR?

A key driver of growth in SMSF has been the desire to have control over how Superannuation assets are invested and to be able to access investment options not available in traditional super funds.

Borrowing

Under a specific arrangement SMSF's can borrow. Whilst leverage increases risk, the right investment can boost longer term capital growth. This arrangement has been in operation for several years and has provided many SMSF owners the ability to own direct real estate.

Costs

Historically, SMSF's were considered expensive to run. This was due to the manual nature of the accounting and administration functions. This high cost excluded many people from SMSF. Supervision SMSF has significantly reduced the establishment and ongoing running costs of an SMSF with its unique approach to SMSF administration. This cost is often lower than that of traditional superannuation accounts depending on your balance. Industry or Retail Superannuation accounts typically charge a percentage of your members balance. Depending on the fund and your balance, the fees can range from .8% to 3%. If your members balance is $200,000 then a 1% annual fee will cost you $2,000 each year. At Supervision you choose a fixed price package and add investment and transaction costs to determine the cost each year. As your SMSF balance grows the lower the cost as a percentage of your SMSF account balance.

Pension Planning

For members nearing pension phase, SMSF allows a seamless transition to access your money. With all Superannuation accounts, the ability to draw a tax free income from your Super is a big incentive to stay within the Superannuation environment.

SMSF offers maximum flexibility in how and when you withdraw your Superannuation pension each year.

Estate Planning

SMSF's enable members to craft and implement estate planning strategies to achieve the desired outcome with exceptional tax efficiency. This includes being able to leave tax advantaged (sometimes tax free) income streams to dependant beneficiaries with control over when they receive a lump sum and look after child beneficiaries in a way that no other structure can match. SMSF's can make binding nominations to make sure that the right people in your life receive your Superannuation benefits. Estate planning is a specialist area that will require professional advice. Supervision can assist in introducing you to third party specialist in this area.

Why are SMSF's so POPULAR?

According to the latest research on Superannuation, SMSF's are growing at the rate of 1400 per month with 599,678 SMSF's in Australia at the time of publication.

ABC Pty Ltd (Trustee & Directors)

The central control over the investment decisions of an SMSF lie with the Director (s) of the Trustee Company. A Corporate Trustee is widely accepted as best practice for SMSF. All members of an SMSF must be a Director of the Trustee Company. The Director (s) are responsible for the ongoing obligations, investment decisions and risk management of the SMSF.

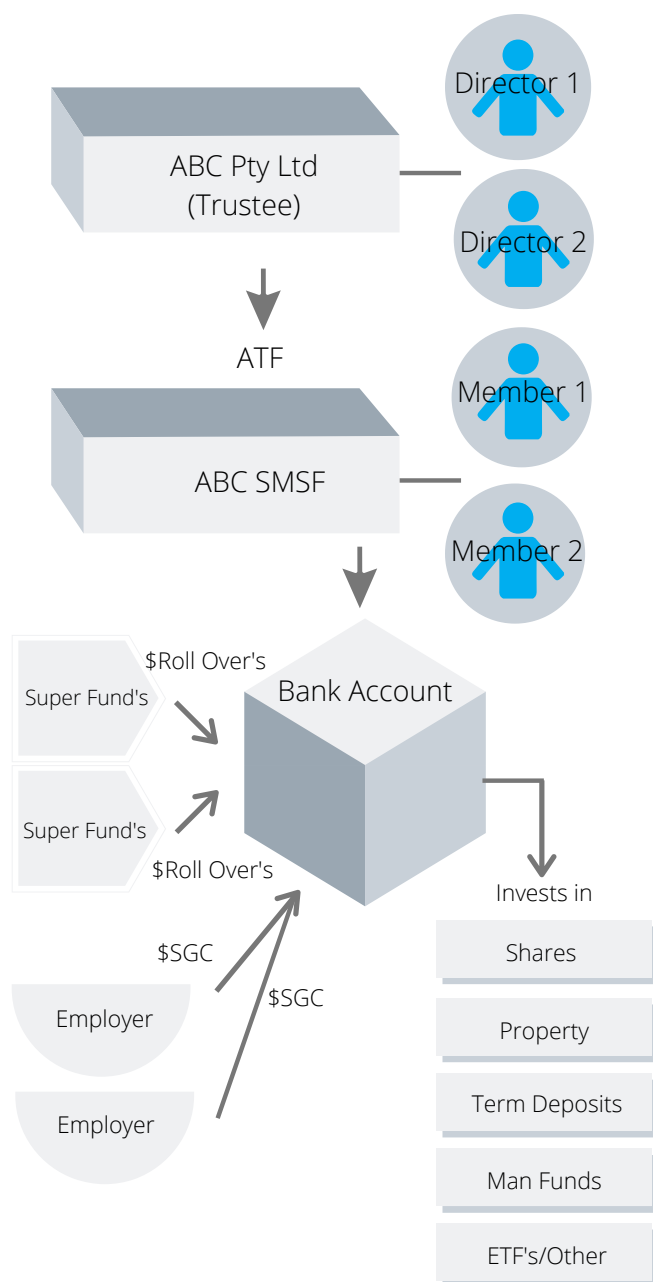

ATF = As Trustee For. ABC Superannuation Fund - The SMSF is formed with a Trust deed which includes rules the Trust must operate. SMSFs must abide by government regulations legislation named SIS. Any persons with a direct financial interest (Money) in an SMSF is regarded as a member. An SMSF is regulated by the Australian Tax Office (ATO).

Bank Account – A dedicated SMSF bank account is created for your SMSF transactions. No personal transactions are allowed.

Roll Overs — Rollovers can be arranged from existing super fund accounts. When rolling over from existing super funds, insurance coverage should be considered, as total rollover will cancel existing policies.

Employer Contributions — Employers can make SGC Superannuation Contributions and Salary Sacrifice Contributions to your new SMSF.

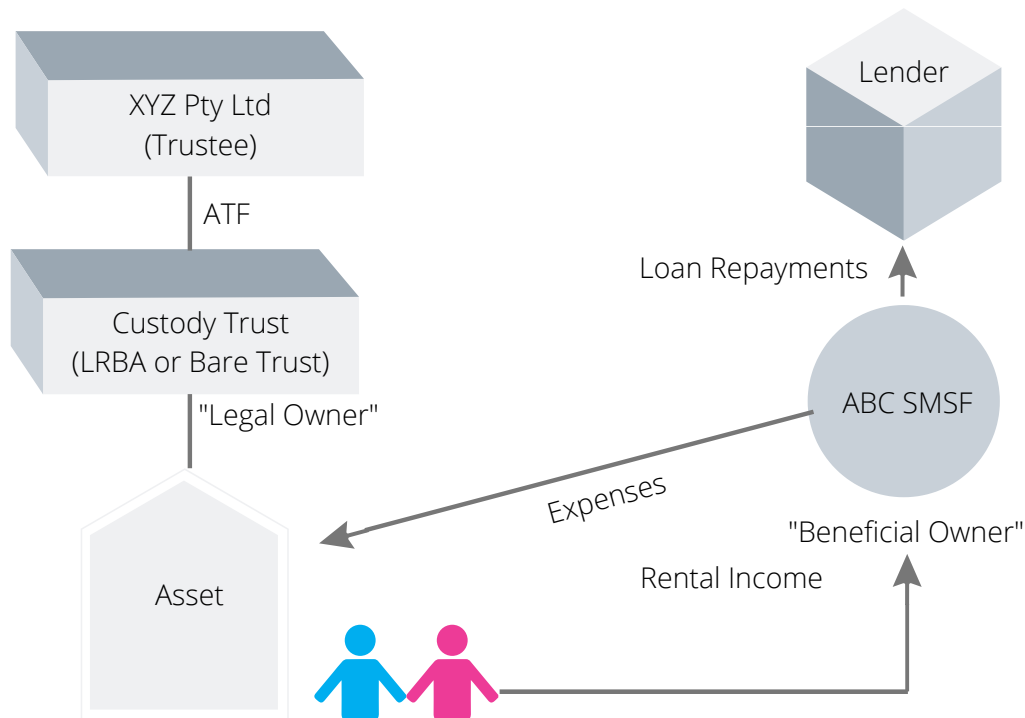

Investing- It goes without saying that you will always make decisions in your best interest. SMSFs have the whole universe of investment options open to them. Listed Shares, Term Deposits, Bonds, Property, Managed Funds, Collectibles are some of the most familiar investments, but you are not limited to them. Some restrictions on SMSF investments exist to safeguard the integrity of the Superannuation system, so if you are unsure please always seek advice.

SMSF Structure OVERVIEW

In an SMSF, all of the decision making power rests with the Trustee - you. The Trustee decides which investments to purchase, hold and sell over the lifetime of the SMSF. All investment decisions must be in line with the SMSF investment strategy.

LRBA Structure (SMSF Borrowing)

LRBA's, Bare Trusts & Custody Trusts

SMSF's are not allowed to borrow money or carry debt. One exception to that rule is if the SMSF enters into an arrangement with a Limited Recourse Borrowing Arrangement (LRBA). LRBA's can also be referred to as "Custody Trust", "Bare Trust" or "Property Trust".

Beneficial Ownership Vs Legal Ownership

The reason the above structure is legal is that the SMSF is not the legal owner of the underlying asset. The asset (in most cases- direct property) is held in trust for the SMSF. This gives the SMSF rights to all of the income that is created by the asset and also has the responsibility to pay the loan and the expenses of the asset. Once the loan has been paid out, the SMSF can then become the legal owner of the asset and continue to receive income and capital growth.

LRBA Structure OVERVIEW

SMSF's can establish a separate trust structure called an LRBA (Limited Recourse Borrowing Arrangement) to allow it to borrow. Many SMSF's with such an arrangement have invested in direct real estate, either residential or commercial.

Is an SMSF Right FOR ME?

Is an SMSF Right for Me?

THE TYPICAL SMSF PERSON DOES NOT EXIST

You may be surprised to learn that a typical SMSF person does not exist. SMSF people do not necessarily live in the same suburbs or share the same careers, earn a certain level of income or sit within a social set. SMSF members come from all manner of financial backgrounds, financial literacy levels and walks of life.

SMSF members typically share a common goal; they want to make the most out of what they have and are prepared to take an active interest in building their financial security. They do not necessarily have limitless knowledge or experience in investments, but they have the motivation to find a way to reach their goals. They are motivated to become financially independent.

Are you Motivated?

When you are deciding if an SMSF is right for you, your level of motivation to actively get involved to maximise your investment returns will be a major factor. We can provide you with everything you need to get started, but ultimately it is up to you. To succeed, it is imperative that you take your financial well being seriously and understand superannuation as part of your retirement plan is extremely important. Successful SMSF people don't leave it to chance, they plan and act now to achieve their long-term goals.

Are you Responsible?

When considering an SMSF you need to consider the responsibilities of a Trustee and whether these responsibilities sit OK with you. Supervision SMSF is here at every step of the journey to assist you in meeting your trustee obligations. These obligations include, documentation, compliance, financial reporting and lodging tax returns, establishing an appropriate investment strategy and managing this for the members.

Is an SMSF Right FOR ME?

Are you Accountable?

When you manage your own SMSF, can you guess who is accountable for its performance? Did I hear you say 'me'? Whilst you can engage investment advisers, select fund managers, pick stocks and do some outsourcing, every decision is ultimately yours. Some decisions will work, others will not, but ultimately you need to stay accountable and manage your investment portfolio diligently for the members.

Other Investment Options

Cash, shares, share options, bonds, term deposits and real estate are some of the typical investment types for SMSFs. There are other options for SMSF investing.

Listed Investments- For those that do not have the time or skill they may access investment management expertise through managed funds, exchange traded funds (ETFs), listed property trusts (LPTs) and listed investment companies (LICs).

Private Companies & Trusts- SMSF investors have the flexibility to invest into private trusts, companies and unit trusts.

Precious Metals- Some SMSF trustees choose to invest into commodities like Gold, Silver, Palladium and Pink Diamonds to mention a few.

Collectables- Depending on the circumstances collectables including artwork, coins, notes, bullion & jewellery can be owned by your SMSF.

Business Real Property- Many small business owners have grown their Superannuation by investing in their own business premises. Their SMSF has purchased the building and the business paying rent to their own Superannuation.

The Sole Purpose (Is that investment legal?)

Providing an income stream for the members when they retire is the only reason that an SMSF and the investment inside that SMSF exist. Members or their relatives can not receive a present day financial benefit from any investments that the SMSF makes. Following the Sole Purpose test will guide SMSF trustees to make the right investment decisions.

Costs & Minimum Balances

Whilst there are no legislated minimum balances for SMSFs, it makes sense that low balances can make SMSF cost prohibitive. To understand if cost is an issue for you, check your current fees and our packages for a comparison.
